As you journey westward from the big cities to the lonely, open land, you meet a group of brave men and women and are told of a curse that has been passed on. The story unfolds as you unravel the mystery of the curse, and your choices will either light the way or cause you to stumble. The boys are back! Edd Logg, Shawn Patton, and Dave Hall bring you . . . With five episodes, this third game in the series pits you and your friends against five immortals and the dark world they have made. You must pass two tests, discover the truth of the past and present, and return to the world you know. Dr. Afon is back, and she's got some trouble to deal with. She's been kidnapped by a criminal mastermind and he's planning to kill her. She must figure out why and find a way to escape. Gameplay The game is similar to its predecessor in every way. Upon completion of the intro, the player is presented with the options to start playing the game in single player mode or multiplayer mode. You begin by assembling a group of heroes with their individual strengths and weaknesses. Each hero has their own strengths and weaknesses as determined by the character creator. The game is made up of a number of levels. As the player progresses through the game, the level number will be randomly generated at the beginning of each game to give a new challenge. After the player has created his or her team, the player chooses a level to start at. Once the player reaches the ground level, he or she has to enter the facility where the game starts. After the player enters the facility, a mission objective appears. A short text description of the mission is then displayed. The player has to complete the mission by doing one of the four actions of repairing, repairing and repairing, attacking, and repairing and repairing. To repair, the player has to hit the repair button, which will add one of the four character's points to his or her total. To repair and repair, the player has to hit the repair button a second time, and he or she must have at least two of the four character's points in the total before hitting the repair button a second time. To attack, the player has to hit the attack button, which will put one of the four character's points into the total and the player can only 82157476af
